Enhance your English teaching and language skills at Western Carolina University’s Teacher Training and English Language Program, June 2016. For one month in the beautiful mountains of North Carolina, immerse yourself in intensive English and TEFL courses and activities designed by experienced TESL/TEFL teacher-trainers to renew and broaden your professional skills and knowledge. The program also includes opportunities for you to step outside the classroom and enjoy urban and outdoor adventures in and around Asheville, North Carolina, a small city that receives international recognition as a cultural nexus for arts, crafts, food and music enthusiasts as well as history, spirituality and outdoor experiences.

Western Carolina University, an internationally focused institution, attracts faculty and students from around the globe and is home to national award winning authors, a national award-winning teacher education program, nationally and internationally recognized experts, and faculty winners of Emmy, O. Henry and National Endowment for the Arts awards. Its campuses offer clean, safe and modern learning environments that host a range of academic disciplines at the Baccalaureate, Master’s and Doctorate levels.

Registration is limited. Register by December 15, 2015 to ensure your place in this rewarding program.
