CALL FOR PAPERS

ROOTED IN THE MOUNTAINS

September 22, 23, & 24, 2016
Western Carolina University, Cullowhee, NC

7th Annual Symposium Integrating
Indigenous Knowledge, Language,
Health, and Environment

Keynote Speaker:
Dr. Brett Riggs (Sequoyah Distinguished
Professor Of Cherokee Studies)

WCU's 7th Annual Symposium Rooted in the Mountains: Valuing Our Common Ground emphasizes the connection between local/traditional knowledge with health and environmental issues. This is an interdisciplinary forum where ethnography, literature, art, music, Native and Western science converge!

We welcome abstract submissions for paper presentations on our theme this year, "The Importance of Time and Place." Please send a 500-word proposal to dghenderson@wcu.edu by May 1st. Put “RITM” in the subject line and include your submission in the text of the email along with your name and contact information. Proposals are encouraged from all disciplines. Students may submit proposals for poster presentations.

For more information, including schedule and registration information, please visit: rootedinthemountains.wcu.edu