*To determine your GPA in English, use only those courses completed in the English major; do not include freshman composition or the sophomore literature courses taken for general education credit. The GPA is determined by dividing the total number of quality points by the total number of semester quality hours. A quality point is the numerical value assigned to a letter grade. The quality points earned in a course are determined by multiplying the quality point value of the grade earned by the credit-hour value of the course. EXAMPLE:
