As a part of Love your Body Week, the Secrets of Powerful Women LEAD 151-01 LLC class created a program, "Work What You Got" to empower individuals on campus about their bodies. The students of the class developed a project (for no assigned credit) for the purpose of helping women pick clothes to accentuate their body types and to feel good about themselves. The class split into 6 groups and were each responsible for creating and running a table at the fair (a main table and 5 body types). The students did research outside of class, created colorful and impactful boards, and even created takeaway materials to hand out to participants. The event was held on the lawn and students were able to interact with other members of campus. Here, the students had an opportunity to learn firsthand what it means to be an advocate, use their voices, and become leaders on campus.
