Dear Catamount,

Greetings and welcome to Western Carolina University! Whether you are Active Duty, Guard, Reserve, Veteran, or a military-affiliated family member, I would like to say thank you for your sacrifices and dedication to our country!

We are so excited to have you as part of our university and look forward to assisting you through your educational journey. We know that military education benefits can be confusing at time, and we are at Military Student Services are here to make it as easy as possible for you!

Military Student Services will be responsible for processing any military or VA education benefits you plan to use. We can also assist you with balancing your school and military obligations. If you haven’t already, I encourage you to visit our military website at military.wcu.edu.

Please seek advice from Military Student Services on your military benefits as it is the responsibility of our office to certify your benefits. Other departments may have definitions that differ from those of the military funding agencies. We are here to help you navigate both WCU’s procedures and your military funding agency.

The information gathered here is a great starting point. We will update this manual annually, however please keep in mind rules and regulations may change at any time. The VA website and/or your Educational Services Offices will have the most up-to-date information.

Feedback is key to ensuring we are doing an exceptional job of meeting your needs as a military-affiliated student. Please feel free to contact us at any time with questions, concerns, and feedback!

I look forward to working with you during your time as a Catamount and again, welcome to WCU!

Students may qualify for more than one benefit at the same time. However, students are only permitted to use one benefit for classes; no ‘double dipping’ is allowed. For example, you may qualify for Post 9/11 & Tuition Assistance, but you can only use one or the other for each class- you may not receive GI Bill and TA for the same course. You can, if you chose, split a semester between the two benefits. This is not recommended. There is one exception to this rule. Those who qualify for MGIB-SR (chapter 1606) and Federal Tuition Assistance, may use both benefits at the same time for the same class.

Western Carolina University does not determine your eligibility for benefits. This decision rests with the VA and/or your branch of service. Also, keep in mind, the VA does not always communicate information to the school. We depend on you to share any changes or updates to your benefits with us.

Due to the complexity of VA regulations, each situation is unique. The school cannot determine eligibility, pay rates, or months of benefits. VA regulations exclude school representatives from advising students on what actions to take regarding VA benefits. It is the students' responsibility to learn about their VA benefit options and to decide what is best for their situation. WCU Military Student Services is here to assist you in accessing that information and connecting you with resources, but WCU MSS is not responsible for making decisions for you. Per VA regulations, the school will report accurate information to the VA in a timely manner based on the student's request.

DO NOT IGNORE YOUR BILL! IF YOU ARE UNSURE OF THE BALANCE OR FEEL IT IS INCORRECT, CONTACT OUR OFFICE IMMEDIATELY! Ignoring your bill will cause you to be dropped from all your classes for nonpayment.

The following sections will breakdown each different educational benefit, what documents we need, how you will get your benefit stipends, and more.

There are many scholarships available to military members and their families. When searching for scholarships it is a good idea to compare the application requirements to the size of the award offered. For example, a scholarship that offers a $200 award, but wants a 10-page essay is not worth the time. Another thing to be aware of when searching for scholarships is the credibility of the organization awarding the funds. Do you know the company? Does the website show past award recipients? Is there a fee to apply? The following is a list of scholarships and other financial aid that we know to be legitimate.

- Run a copy of your degree evaluation. The degree evaluation will show you how the courses you have taken and are registered for fit in to requirements for graduation, Liberal Studies and your major if you have chosen one. You can even run a "what if" evaluation for any major you may be considering.
- Check the online University catalog (catalog.wcu.edu or myWCU Quick Links) for course descriptions of Liberal Studies or major requirements. The description should list any prerequisites you may need to take before you can register for a course. You can also view major & minor requirements here.

➢ Prepare a list of courses you need/want to take in the upcoming semester and bring the list to your appointment. Use the information you collected from your degree evaluation and the online catalog to prepare your list. Also, list alternates in case any of your preferences are not available.

How to Maintain Good Academic Standing:

2.0 GPA (semester and cumulative)

67% Completion Ratio = Hours completed out of hours attempted: each semester and cumulative (of attempted credits at WCU)

Example: registered for 15 credits, withdraw with a “W” from 3 credit class, 12/15 = 80% completed

➢ Drop during add/drop period during the first week does not count as W and does not affect Completion Ratio

Maximum 16 credits of “W” allowed during academic career. Withdrawal from entire semester does not count against 16 credit limit, but it will affect your completion ratio.

GREEN ZONE TRAINING

WCU offers Green Zone Training to all faculty & staff once a semester. Participation is voluntary. Participants that complete the training get a sticker (see above) for their office so that military students can recognize the area as a safe place. If you need assistance, you can go to any of the safe places on campus and receive help. Or have a quiet place for a few moments.

HOW YOU CAN HELP:

Green Zone Training only works if you- the military student- participates. At each training, we ask for volunteers who have served in the military to host a table. By hosting a table, you are given the opportunity to tell faculty and staff about your military experience and, in turn, they have the opportunity to ask questions. To volunteer, contact Military Student Services.
FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

1. I want to join the military. Do you recruit for them?
   a. No, we work for WCU and are here to support military affiliated students. We do not recruit for the military. If you are interested in joining the Armed Forces, we can give you the contact information for the local recruiting office and connect you with veterans who can speak to you about military life.

2. Do you accept military training for college credits?
   a. Yes, we follow the A.C.E. recommendations for credit. All branches, except the Air Force, should send an official copy of your Joint Services Transcript to WCU for evaluation. Air Force members should send an official copy of the CCAF transcript.

3. I have Post 9/11 GI Bill. Will have any out-of-pocket costs?
   a. Yes, while the Post 9/11 covers most of your costs, there will still be out of pocket expenses. If you are unsure about your bill, contact Military Student Services for assistance. Here is a breakdown of typical out of pocket costs for Post 9/11 users:
      • Tuition Deposit- $150- holds your space at WCU
      • Parking Permit-$varied- required to park on campus
      • Housing deposit- $150- reserves your dorm room until you arrive
      • Housing- $varied- billed per semester. Post 9/11 does not pay the school. Student received a monthly stipend for housing/living expenses
      • Meal Plan- $varied- used to purchase food/snacks on campus. Post 9/11 does not pay the school. Student received a monthly stipend for housing/living expenses
      • Books- $varied- depending on your program and student type, you may be required to purchase textbooks. Post 9/11 does not cover this directly. Student will receive a book stipend from the VA on or before the start of classes.

4. When should I expect my money from the VA?
   a. The VA pays education benefit stipends at the end of the month for that month. However, if it is your first semester using the benefit, it will be late. First time users should expect their first stipend payment mid-to-late semester.

5. I am due a refund, but I didn’t receive it on the financial aid release date. Where’s my refund?
a. VA/TA funds are not financial aid funds and have different pay schedules. As money comes in from various sources, it is applied to your account until all charges are covered. Additional funds received once all charges are paid, will be refunded to the student. NOTE: financial aid money will arrive first and be applied to your account. VA/TA funds will arrive later in the term. If you are due a refund, you may not receive it until the VA funds arrive OR you may receive a partial refund and then a second one when VA funds arrive. When in doubt, contact Military Student Services for assistance.

6. I am getting deployed. What happens with my classes?

   a. There are several options for this. Depending on how far along you are in the term, we can do one of the following:

      • Talk to your professors, you may be able to finish up early. (option if we are less than a month from the end of the term)
      • Talk to your professors, you may be able to take an “I” incomplete grade and complete the course by the end of the next term (option if we are more than halfway through the term and will have internet capabilities)
      • Military withdrawal- removes all courses and charges for the term. No grades assigned, any VA/TA funds received, will be returned. (option if you are less than halfway through the term or will not be able to do the other two options)

      • To request a military withdrawal, send a copy of your orders to blford@wcu.edu

The Madison Era: 1888-1912

In 1888 a group of families in the Cullowhee Valley undertook a community effort to create a school for their children. In its second year a young teacher from Virginia, Robert Lee Madison, was hired to teach some 100 students between the ages of six and twenty. His mission, what he called the “Cullowhee Idea,” was to provide competent teachers for rural classrooms. He succeeded in 1893 in obtaining an annual state appropriation of $1,500 to support a normal, or teacher training, department for the new Cullowhee Academy. By 1897 its enrollment was 234, and its state appropriations were increased to include capital funds for construction. By 1910 the campus had expanded from its first two-room building to include a classroom building (Old Madison) and a dormitory (Davies Home).

From High School to Teachers College: 1912-1947

By 1918, the institution revised its curriculum to offer a more broadly appealing six-year program: two years of preparatory classes (grades eight and nine) followed by a four-year curriculum that resulted in a junior college degree. Three degree programs -- in teaching, classics, and vocational agriculture -- were offered. In 1925 the institution became a junior college teacher training institution, the Cullowhee State Normal School. In addition to the change in its mission, the school also increased in size with the addition of Dave Rogers’s 65-acre “Town House” farm in 1924. In 1929 a new name, Western Carolina Teachers College, reflected the institution’s expanded mandate as a four-year college. New majors accompanied the growth of the baccalaureate program. Accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools in 1946 recognized the quality of the institution.
From Teachers College to University: 1947-1967

In the aftermath of World War II, Western Carolina Teacher’s College underwent a dramatic transformation. First on the list of challenges was enrollment growth, with enrollment reaching 610 by 1950. The result was the largest building program in Western Carolina’s history to date. A science building and library, a dining hall and dormitories, an education and psychology building, and a new student union were all added to the campus. In 1953 WCTC changed its name to Western Carolina College and added bachelor of arts and bachelor of science degrees added to the original teacher education program as well as the first graduate program, a master of arts in education. In 1967 the state legislature elevated Western Carolina’s status to that of a university.

Two Decades of Transformation: 1967-1989

In 1972 the state legislature merged Western and 16 other state campuses into the University of North Carolina system. Several changes reshaped the student body in the 1970s. Increases in out-of-state tuition meant that almost 90% of Western’s students came from North Carolina. An emphasis on recruiting minority and international students brought greater diversity to the student body. In the same decade, schools of Technology and Applied Sciences and of Health Sciences and Services were established. New buildings for the sciences, music, and English were constructed, along with a regional activities center. Athletics also grew: Western Carolina joined the Southern Conference and undertook compliance with Title IX in women’s sports. The athletic highlight of the period came in 1983 when Coach Bob Waters led his football team to the NCAA Division I-AA national championship game.

The University's Second Century: 1989-2018

By 1994, WCU’s enrollment had grown to 6,800 students, and in the decade that followed enrollment skyrocketed to now more than 12,000 students. WCU’s Brinson Honors College, the first in the UNC system, grew from 77 students in 1997 to more than 1,400 today. A multi-purpose Recreation Center was opened. New stadiums were built for women’s softball, soccer, and track and field. The Bardo Center for the Fine and Performing Arts was added, and WCU established its 344-acre Millennial Campus west of NC 107 where it constructed a state-of-the-art Health and Human Science Building. Online degree programs were launched and contributed to enrollment growth, and WCU renewed its commitment to student success, innovation in education and engagement with the region.
Honoring Our Promise: 2019-Present

Since 2018, Western Carolina University has been one of the three University of North Carolina System institutions that are part of the NC Promise program, which reduces the cost of tuition to $500 per semester for North Carolina residents and $2,500 for students from out of state. Total enrollment has crossed the 12,000-student threshold for the first time in the institution’s history. The university has opened Levern Hamlin Allen Hall in honor of WCU’s first African American student, and the $110 million 182,989-square-foot Apodaca Science Building is under construction and scheduled for occupancy by June 2021. The university has reinforced its historic relationship with the Eastern Band of Cherokee Indians as it looks toward a future with an enhanced emphasis on diversity and inclusion and enduring commitment to academic excellence.
