2020-2021 Update

The April 2019 update did not include initiatives for goal 4.5. CEAP Leadership Council drafted initiatives, as well as updating the CEAP Mission, Vision, and Core Values which had not been updated in over ten years. Leadership Council sought feedback on the changes from faculty and staff via Qualtrics survey. Due to COVID-19, the typically in person state of the college meeting was held virtually and voting to approve the changes was done electronically by Qualtrics survey ballot. The changes passed unanimously.

Processes
The 2018-19 Strategic Planning Committee was charged with developing a proposal to update the CEAP Strategic Plan by doing the following: (1) assessing the progress on the current initiatives and proposing an update as deemed necessary, including re-stating, eliminating or altering strategic directions, goals and/initiatives; (2) proposing the addition of new strategic directions, goals and/or initiatives; and (3) assessing the consistency/agreement between the CEAP plan and the WCU and UNC system plans.

The Committee met face-to-face three times during the Fall of 2018-19: Friday, 7 September; Friday, 19 October; and Friday, 2 November. A draft was shared with the college two weeks prior to Assessment Day (2/1/19) and an open forum was held on that day. After that time, the college was given one month to provide feedback to the committee. A fourth meeting was held online (via ZOOM) on Monday, 26 November 2018. The Committee met for a final time on Tuesday, 2 April 2019, to incorporate feedback from the Dean, the CEAP Leadership Team and faculty and staff who submitted online feedback.

2014-2015 Review
The College of Education and Allied Professions held a Strategic Planning Conference September 12, 2014 and all faculty and staff members of the College reviewed the Strategic Plan mission and vision and considered one of the five major strategic directions. The Faculty Advisory Committee to the Dean reviewed the recommendations from the Strategic Planning Conference December 5, 2014 and drafted revisions. The Faculty Advisory Committee also reviewed suggestions from others (April 10, 2015) including the Diversity Committee and reviewed the results of the College Climate Survey 2015 pertaining to the importance of strategic directions and perceptions of progress. Forty members of the College completed the survey administered electronically in spring 2015 by the Director of Assessment. Approximately 60 percent of respondents were faculty and approximately 40 percent were administrators and staff.

A draft of the revised Strategic Plan was distributed electronically to the CEAP membership and the College of Education and Allied Professions held a vote of the College at the State of College Meeting on April 24, 2015. The revision passed and the revised version was adopted.

Processes

The CEAP Strategic Planning Committee was formed in the fall semester of 2012 through a nomination and review process directed by the Dean and implemented by the college's Leadership Council. For efficiency, the decision was to establish a small working group that could efficiently develop a draft document that would be repeatedly reviewed by the entire college and modified iteratively.

This committee began in December of 2012 by reviewing the university's 2020 Plan and related documents, with the first formal face-to-face meeting on January 11, 2013. At that meeting, five main Strategic Directions were agreed upon, and committee members were assigned in pairs to write an initial first draft of their particular strategic direction. A full workday was scheduled on January 18, 2013.

At the meeting on January 18th, committee members worked on polishing and editing the rough draft pieces into a draft (1.0) that was intended to be launched for initial feedback from CEAP faculty at the planned "CEAP Assessment Day" event that was scheduled for January 25th but cancelled due to snow. The committee continued working on the draft until sending it out to CEAP faculty electronically for feedback (Draft 1.3) on 2/14/2013. Suggestions were received and incorporated into a Draft 1.4 from Dale Carpenter, Mary Jean Herzog, Patricia Bricker and Maurice Phipps.

On March 7th, Draft 1.4 was reviewed by the Dean's Student Advisory Group. Three graduate students from three different programs (Counseling, College Student Personnel, and Psychology) participated in this process, and were described by the Dean as very engaged and interested. Briefly, this group considered each proposed Strategic Direction at a time, and then considered the Mission, Vision, and Core Values. Their input was incorporated into Draft 2.0 along with new additions from faculty Maurice Phipps and John Habel.

Committee members continued to work on drafts, and on March 10, 2013, Draft 2.0 was sent electronically to faculty members in CEAP for feedback. The Draft 2.0 was also forwarded by Dale Carpenter to other members of the campus community outside of CEAP (e.g., Arts and Sciences, Graduate School, etc.) for feedback. Feedback was received on Draft 2.0 from Dale Carpenter, Bob Houghton, Mary Jean Herzog and Lois Petrovich-Mwaniki.
Input was solicited from several specific sources based on areas of expertise, including Associate Dean Kim Ruebel, David Claxton, Brett Woods, John Habel, Henry Wong, and others listed above.

The Dean’s Faculty Advisory Council was also solicited for input and was distributed to the Professional Education Council as well as the Council of Deans.

The committee continued to work by email and by a GoToMeeting on April 7, 2013 and Draft 3.0 was sent electronically to CEAP faculty on April 10, 2013. An Open Forum was conducted for April 12, 2013 for discussion and input on the Draft 3.1, and several changes were made by consensus of the group in attendance. Draft 3.2 was then distributed to the full college with recommendation for formal approval. The vote was scheduled for Friday, April 19th. On that date the full college met for a "State of the College" meeting. The first agenda item was a formal vote on the Strategic Plan, which passed with 96% support.
